

VETR

AFTER YOU

After You
a single by Vetr

www.vetrmusic.com

After You

Again He looked at the horizon
The swords were waiting for him

It was the last night that the moon
Could see his shining face like a dream

He gathered all his companions and said
I don't know better friends than you

But Anyone staying here won't be alive tomorrow
You can save yourself tonight and go

A deep silence filled the air
Until his brother Abbas said

After you
We just can't live
After you
We just can't breathe
After you

Again he walked around the tents
He was worried about his little children

In a barren desert no food no water under a siege that became harder and harder

He gathered all his companions and said
I don't know better friends than you

But Anyone staying here won't be alive tomorrow
You can save yourself tonight and go

A deep silence filled the air
Until his brother Abbas said

After you
We just can't live

After You

After you
We just can't breathe
After you

The next afternoon, only Hussein and the children remained

He mounted his horse and rode into the battlefield
Looking at his comrades' bodies on the hot, desert ground

He remembered their last words

After you
We just can't live
After you
We just can't breathe
After you

Again He looked at the horizon
His children were waiting for him...