SOMEONE FROM THE HEAVENS

I've trusted you a thousand times
But you always bring me back to the same place
My heart is moaning, but you can't hear
What do you care about me, except my face?

You think you know everything
You think you're enough
But sometimes a tiny virus ruins your life
You have so many heroes, but only in movies
I've tried all you said
Is there any way left to save me?

I need someone from the heavens
Who can heal my soul and not just my body
I need someone from the heavens
Who can make me free and not just happy

Today is over and I'm alone again
You show me a new movie, but then everything's the same
You give me small pills and push me to sleep
But you can't change my dreams; they're too deep

You think you know everything
You think you're enough
But sometimes a tiny virus ruins your life
You have so many heroes, but only in movies
I've tried all you said
Is there any way left to save me?

I need someone from the heavens
Who can heal my soul and not just my body
I need someone from the heavens
Who can make me free and not just happy
